As more businesses move to 24/7 operations since the 19th century, round-the-clock productivity and profitability is increasingly balanced with occupational health and safety requirements. Regrettably, many companies fail to realize causes of workplace accidents and health risks on operational practices, which can result in undesirable exposure to legal prosecution and other significant losses.

With an increasingly regulated environment, it is crucial for every company to focus on practical ways to improve health & safety performance and reduce environmental impacts to ensure a sustainable development of an OHS program as well as to progress the corporate reputation.

To tackle these challenges and ensure high returns to the company in terms of productivity and profitability, Asia Business Forum has carefully researched and designed this two-day event on "OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH & SAFETY MANAGEMENT" as a unique platform gathering the most distinguished safety experts, government officials and high-profile advisory teams to share their perspectives and real-life case studies towards a sustainable development of OHS organization.
